

Dalaman to Kalkan

Your journey should take around one and a half hours. It's about 115 kilometres. Leave the airport through the exit barrier (you will see a booth to pay your car parking charge). Once you pass the security checkpoint you are on the D555 Muğla Fethiye Yolu, which is a dual carriageway.

Carry straight on across the roundabout at Dalaman town and continue until you see a Suzuki garage, where you turn right on to a single carriageway road. Unless they have made repairs recently, this is quite a rough road. Continue to the end of this road and turn right on to the main road - the D400.

Don't worry if you miss this right turn because if you keep going you will eventually reach a major intersection, where the D555 meets the D400. Turn right here on to the D400. (By turning right at the Suzuki garage you are cutting out a couple of kilometres). The D400 road takes you all the way to Kalkan.

The next major landmark is the Göcek tunnel. If you prefer winding mountain roads you can avoid the tunnel, but if you can't wait to get to Kalkan (and we assume you can't) drive to the toll booth, pay your 3 TRY (as at March 2009) and drive through.

Keep on the D400 at all times, signposted for Fethiye, Kaş, and Antalya. However don't drive into Fethiye town - keep on the main road (D400).

Once you have bypassed Fethiye (on your right) you will eventually come to a major junction with traffic lights. Follow the sign for Kaş, and Antalya and turn right here - still on the D400. As you are approaching Kalkan the road goes uphill and as you come over the brow of the hill you will see the magnificence of Kalkan Bay, with Mouse & Snake islands on your right. If it is dark you will see the orange glow of Kalkan as you drop down towards the town.

As the road nears Kalkan the road goes downhill quite steeply and splits into a dual carriageway with palm trees in the middle, and you will see a major junction with traffic lights and a petrol station on your right. To go towards Kalkan town centre, turn right at the junction before the petrol station.

You have arrived in Kalkan. Hos, geldiniz.

www.luxurykalkanrentals.com

kalkanluxrent@gmail.com

Please be aware that your property has been booked direct with the owners, as us as the advertising web site only